

Interview.....

Your sources of inspiration at work ?

I draw great inspiration in every aspect from madam Amrutha Latha. Besides that the co-operation of Mrs. T. Vasantha and Mrs. P. Sujatha in my day to day administration, the sincerity and hard working nature of the teachers, the enthusiasm and innocence of my little students keep my spirit alive.

'Experience teaches several lessons' - the best lesson so far you learnt ?

I learnt how to be cautious at work, how to balance my emotions and how precious my profession is.

What do you do for the allround development of the students ?

I encourage my students in all aspects and try to bring out their hidden talents.

How do you mould your child to become a good citizen ?

Now and then I give the examples of their seniors who were sincere and studious during their schooling and how they are successful now. I suggest the parents to keep their children in hostel if they are arrogant, disobedient and lack interest in studies. I try to change their behaviour with my close observation and appropriate guidance.

What's the need to categorise students into A1, A2 and A3 ? Won't it effect their confidence ?

For this question, let me take the example of my own son. He was admitted into intermediate at Vignan College where there was similar categorisation. My son couldn't cope up with the competition in J1 section, though he was equally clever. He began to feel inferior among them. At last he went to his principal and requested him to change his section. He was shifted to J2.

To my surprise, he stood college first in the final result of BIE - 1995 and he broke the college record.

To sum it up, we should provide the student such kind of class room environment that it suits him and helps him to come up naturally.

Slow learners - what are the remedial measures you suggest?

Slow learners are found everywhere. The thing is we need to identify them properly and find the root cause for the problem and act accordingly. As such, I emphasize my students to understand the concepts, give them simple tricks to remember well instead of just mugging up the matter.

Your message to the students ?

Be obedient to teachers and parents.
Never divert your mind from studies.
Be self disciplined.

V. PRABHA DEVI, M.A., M.Ed., CORRESPONDENT

Always keep aims and goals high and work hard to reach them.

Your appeal to the parents ?

Please send the children regularly to school. Check them whether they are doing their home works.

Don't allow them to watch the pap on T.V. Instead try to tell them some moral and patriotic stories.
